

News Release

For Immediate Release

June 20, 2013

Turks and Caicos Beaches are Open for Fall Honeymoons

Autumn is considered the quiet season in the Caribbean. Some resorts close in September and October for special maintenance projects, leaving beaches private and intimate for the visitors.

But the Alexandra Resort, located on world acclaimed Grace Bay Beach on Providenciales in Turks and Caicos Islands, will remain open and offers an ideal place for a fall honeymoon. The resort occupies the ultimate address on the stunning white sands of Grace Bay Beach and beautifully landscaped grounds contribute to a picture perfect setting.

After celebrating a wedding enhanced by a cavalcade of fall colours, swap the vibrant oranges and reds of fall leaves for a honeymoon framed by a sensational backdrop of dazzling turquoise waters and pure white sand beaches.

The stunning Turks and Caicos beaches are never crowded, but honeymooners visiting in the autumn may well feel like they have much of Grace Bay Beach all to themselves. The resort offers honeymooners a wonderful experience to start married life together – strolling along an idyllic Caribbean shoreline, swimming in clear turquoise waters, and enjoying privacy and solitude by the resort's large free form swimming pool.

Fall honeymoons at the Alexandra Resort also offer great savings.

Package prices (based on a minimum three night stay) start from just $364 per room per night and include:

- Breakfast room service each morning from Mango Reef
- Barefoot dinner on the beach one evening with Mango Reef
- $100 credit at Spa Sanay
- $100 credit with Caicos Dream Tours excursions
- Welcome bottle of sparkling wine and sweet treat in room upon arrival
- Complimentary late check out until 1pm
- Room upgrade when available
- Reserved signs on two beach chaises each morning until 11am

As an added bonus, honeymooners staying for five nights will receive the fifth night free, and if they stay seven nights, they will also receive a $100 resort credit. This special offer is available for new reservations made directly with the resort, and for travel from September 1 until November 24, 2013 .

For more information visit www.alexandradesort.com.